A Monthly Newsletter of B'rit Hadashah Ministries

John
5:39

Volume 5, Number 7

July 2007

As always, special thanks go out to Zola Levitt Ministries / To The Jew First Ministry for their ongoing funding contributions to B'rit Hadashah Ministries, helping to make these mission trips to Israel possible.

The following series of articles is a detailed account of our thirteenth Gospel outreach to Israel that occurred from March to April 2007. I am happy to report that the Lord gave our outreach team, consisting of Robert Cuccia, Teresa Brown, Sue Legrand, and myself, ample opportunities to boldly proclaim the Gospel of Jesus the Messiah to His own people. Todd Baker This trip and these series of articles are devoted to the memory and ministry of Zola Levitt, whose passing into glory has now approached a year. But his vision of Jewish evangelism lives on in this very ministry to Israel. In these series of articles, the reader will hear from all four outreach team members.

Reaching Israel for the Redeemer

Part 3

Isaiah 62:11

One evening during our stay in Tiberius, Robert and I spotted a shopping mall and we decided to visit there. Robert went to the men's shoe department. While there, two children approached us asking for donations to give to a charity that helps orphans in Israel. One of the children's name was Harleel. Robert asked one of the workers at the mall if this was a legitimate organization. She said yes. I decided to give them a donation since orphans are especially close to the heart of God and helping them is a pure expression of demonstrating faith in Christ. For, "pure and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble, and to keep oneself unspotted from the world" (James 1:27).

Harleel was able to understand English, so I said to her that the ten shekels I would give her is a very small token of gratitude of what the Chosen People gave us (on the level of infinitesimal) in comparison to the matchless gift the Jewish people have given the world—eternal life in Yeshua the Messiah. Robert and I gave them ten shekels each coupled with a Gospel tract defining and explaining who the Jewish Messiah is. The children excitedly accepted them, thanked us, and went on their way. Yes, children are just as important and valued in the eyes of the Savior as adults are. For the Lord admonishes us that we are to be trusting and open to receive Him if we are to enter into the kingdom of God, or else we shall not gain access! "Truly I say to you, unless you are converted and become as little children, you will by no means enter the kingdom of God" (Matthew 18:3).

Robert decided to buy walking shoes and a vivacious saleslady (her name was Nadine) assisted him in his selection. We asked Nadine about the missile attacks from the Terrorist militias of Hamas in Lebanon that occurred on Tiberius and the rest of Northern Israel in July and August of 2006. Nadine emotionally related how one of these Hamas missiles missed her home by a mere forty yards! It was apparent that she was still affected by this for the simple fact her voice quivered at times and her eyes were tearing up during the course of our conversation with her.

We shared with Nadine that God mercifully spared her from death and on a larger scale has promised to protect and preserve the Jewish nation of Israel as His people forever in spite of the global hatred, persecution, and murderous attempts to insanely destroy them. We shared with her from the Hebrew text of Scripture the great promise of Jeremiah 31:35-37 which says:

"Thus says the Lord, Who gives the sun for a light by day, the ordinances of the moon and the stars for a light by night, who disturbs the sea, and its waves roar (The Lord of hosts is His name) If these ordinances depart from before Me, says the Lord, then the seed of Israel shall also cease from being a nation before Me forever. Thus says the Lord: If heaven above can be measured, and the foundations of the earth searched out beneath, I will also cast off all the seed of Israel for all that they have done, says the Lord."

We said that Yahweh vouchsafed this forever when He sent His Son Yeshua Ha Mashiach to bring eternal redemption to Israel by giving His life as the one final sacrifice for sins. Nadine was moved by this great promise and by our visible support and love for the Lord's people. As a token of our gratitude for her and the people of Israel, we gave her a fine copy of a Hebrew study Bible with both the Old and New Testaments so that she could discover in its revelatory pages Yeshua the Messiah—the greatest life ever lived and the greatest life ever given so that she could believe and live forever with Him. Nadine was visibly moved over the gift of God's Word and His Son whom He gave to Israel and the world. It was our privilege to joyfully give back to her what her people first sacrificially gave to all mankind.†

CONTINUING IN JERUSALEM

The weather was a little cooler in Jerusalem than in Tiberius. I suggested to our mission team that we visit the zoo in Jerusalem and they agreed. We found out that Jerusalem has a very wonderful zoo called the Zoological Gardens and the Biblical Zoo. There are Bible verses posted at various exhibits there. I highly recommend you visit it the next time you're in Jerusalem!

The zoo is built upon two levels and there is a train accompanied by a guide. Robert was my mission partner here. We were able to talk to a couple visiting from England and give them each a tract. They were Jewish and had their grandson with them. I lived in England myself one year.

Next, we met a gentleman named Elei who was spending the day with his young granddaughter and grandson. I happened to hand Elei a tract in Hebrew and he thanked me in English. I said, "Oh, you can speak English" and we had a very long conversation with him about Yeshua and the Bible. Robert was learning about Jewish customs and traditions from Elei while sharing the Good News with him. Elei is a retired IDF officer and has a private touring business as a licensed guide. He is also a reserve police officer.

We all enjoyed visiting while his grandchildren were perfect angels. His granddaughter slept in his arms while he sat on a bench and his grandson admired the animal exhibit there. Elei gave us his phone number and business card and encouraged us to contact him again sometime. He speaks Hebrew, Yiddish, French, English and German. Our meeting with Elei was one of many preordained meetings, or divine appointments, on this productive outreach to Yeshua's homeland.

Next, we had a fun afternoon visiting the German Quarter. We enjoyed Italian ice cream and were able to share and give out materials at the ice cream shop. They make their own ice cream and Robert was interested in seeing how their ice cream machinery worked.

We needed to change our US dollars into shekels, so we went to a money changer shop. There was a very long wait there, and we were behind a rich man who had $8000 to change. He had been able to retire young from Oregon and move to Israel. I told him that we support Israel and pray for the Israeli army. He thanked me and I noticed his vacant and haunted eyes. I tried to share a prophecy pamphlet with him. He was not interested in knowing about the Messiah although he was celebrating Pesach with his friends and family. He needs God's loving kindness and salvation, so we prayed together for him.

DESTINATION: HAIFA

When we first arrived in Haifa, we met a lovely young waitress at the restaurant we chose for dinner. One of us asked her about the Lebanon war and if she had been safe. She had just started this job and continued to work during the war, but would hide in the restroom when the sirens went off warning of rocket attacks. She said the customers would remain at the table and continue their dinner as usual. She said that everything was quickly rebuilt. We gave her a B'rit Hadashah and we took her picture. It was a delight to visit with her.

We visited Canyon Mall where we split up, Todd and Robert working together and Teresa and I together. We met one young woman with long red hair working a booth in the mall, selling formal decorations for holidays and special events. She was bright and friendly reminding me of my sweet daughter-in-law, Cara. Her name was Roni. I think she said she went to Tel Aviv during the war and did not need a bomb shelter. She said Haifa was not hit hard. She was Jewish but had gone to school in Milan and lived a few years in Boston also. She was delightful and gladly accepted a complete study Bible from us.

Roni, working at a booth in the mall in Haifa, gladly accepted a complete study Bible

At another counter we met a young newlywed couple selling perfume. We gave them a B'rit Hadashah as a wedding gift, which they graciously accepted. We were able to give out numerous Bibles and Messianic materials in Haifa. The people there were some of the most curious and accepting.

During dinner, Robert commented to the couple sitting next to us what a precious little girl they had. While Robert talked to the husband, I was able to talk to his wife, Deborah. The little girl was about three years old and her name was Shannon. Deborah pulled her chair up to my table. She had grown up in France as a Jew, but had met her Jewish husband while in New York. It happened to be Deborah's birthday and I gave her a birthday gift, the B'rit Hadashah. Her husband was very traditional in his beliefs, so I wasn't sure he would want her to have it. She put it in her purse and said that she would read it. I suggested that she start by reading the book of John.

On the next Shabbat, we visited the Kabala Center. A young man there at the desk accepted a booklet from us and talked to us for quite a while. He was mainly interested in self-help through Kabala studies and practices.

Robert and I then took the subway to the south part of Haifa near the port. This area was mostly Arab. We met several Arab young men who accepted Bibles and materials. One said his best friend was a Christian. We felt we were watering seeds of faith his friend had planted.

Because it was Shabbat Friday, the subway and buses stopped running early. While walking back, we met another young man. He stopped to talk to us and accepted a B'rit Hadashah.

After walking a while more, I suggested that we get a taxi. The taxi driver was going to close for the day, but agreed to give us a ride before retiring for Shabbat. He was a Russian Jew driving a Czechoslovakian car cab. He accepted a B'rit Hadashah and thanked us.

The next day, we attended a congregation that Todd and Robert have attended on past trips to Haifa. A friend, Marvin Kramer, attends there with his family. Robert took us to visit Marvin earlier. He is an attorney, but he and his wife run a pregnancy center and have helped many women and families. Robert's church has provided a sonogram machine for the center, which is being greatly expanded. We enjoyed our visit with Marvin and his family. They are doing a great job in the ministry to help families. He said that there are many more abortions in Israel than in the United States. Very sad.

We then had lunch at a seafood restaurant across the street. Teresa was able to minister to our young waitress there and give her a B'rit Hadashah. Her name was Lisa and she was pregnant. Teresa counseled her to get help and fellowship from the congregation across the street. She was very touched and held back tears. She didn't want to cry as she was working.

For dessert, we found another shop that served that Italian ice cream we liked so much. We enjoyed our ice cream inside while having a relaxing and fun time. As we were leaving, a woman sitting at a table outside asked me where we were from. I replied and we started a conversation with her and her husband. They were very friendly and we talked a long time. Finally, I sat down at their table with them as Todd, Robert and Teresa continued visiting. Judy and Moses were their names. Moses had recently retired from teaching physics. He had a scientific mind and was not interested in anything religious. He had lost many relatives in the Holocaust and was still bitter over it. We talked politics and religion. Judy was not very happy living in Israel and thought she would like moving to New York. But, because they had twin grandchildren here, they would stay. I told Moses he did not have to be religious to accept the Jewish Messiah. Judy was interested in our love and support of Israel and in our Messianic literature. She received a complete Bible and seemed very thankful. I hope now that Moses is retired he may decide to read the Bible and materials we left with them. It began to rain lightly as we left and I saw Moses and Judy walking down the street arm in arm.

DESTINATION: TEL AVIV AND HOME

We returned to Tel Aviv as our time was getting short. While there, we visited Todd's very good friends who have 12-year-old triplets. We all had a smashing evening of fun fellowship at their lovely home and garden. We ate several meals on the beach of the gorgeous Mediterranean Sea. And, also had a few more divine appointments at the hotel, the restaurant and at a mall across from the Med Sea. We would soon be on our way home until next time.

There were two noteworthy news events that I noticed while we were gone. One, an Israeli transportation strike just as we arrived in Israel. The strikes usually just last one day. Thankfully we were not inconvenienced. Then later on, of course, we heard of the 15 British sailors who were taken captive by Iran, many days later to be released after much negotiating. We saw no violence in Israel while there; on the contrary it was very peaceful and safe.

Please pray for us to continue to reach out in love and compassion to the Chosen People of Israel and all others, clearly stating the Good News in Yeshua's homeland and to the ends of the earth. It is our responsibility according to the Great Commission given to us by Yeshua, Jesus, the Messiah. If we don't speak the truth, someone else will propagate false truth, lies. Let us clearly state the Good News!

We pray for those we have met and will meet in the future. It is my hope and prayer to be able to participate soon again in this much needed outreach to Israel as a messenger of Messiah. The harvest is plentiful and rich in this captivating land! ✠✠✠

ATTENTION READERS!

You'll be seeing a new format for our newsletter starting in September, and we're excited about it! Instead of the 6-page issue that you now get every month, it will be a larger issue (10-12 pages) every other month. And in the months in between, you'll get a Personal Letter from Dr. Todd Baker. We hope that the larger issues will give us a chance to include more types of information. We also hope to be able to have reader input such as your own pictures of Israel, or witnessing testimonies. So pray for us as we start putting this new format together, that it will be God's will and that we will still have His hand guiding us.

THE PORTENTIOUS NUMBER "FORTY"

BY STUART ARDEN
ISRAELI CORRESPONDENT

The Six Day War, which saw Jerusalem's Temple Mount and Western Wall returned in their entirety to Israeli control (after the unprovoked Jordanian attack in 1948 and its subsequent nineteen year occupation), occurred in 1967 (Hebrew year 5727). This means that this year, 2007 (Hebrew year 5767), represents the 40th year of Jerusalem's reunification.

Israeli paratroopers standing in awe as they reach the Western Wall in 1967 (David Rubinger's most famous photograph)

Does that number 40 contain portents for the future? With Biblical references to the number 40 and Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad saying that Israel will be wiped off the face of the map, as well as Israel's neighbors madly buying sophisticated military equipment when no one is threatening them, there is indeed cause for apprehension. Adolph Hitler, a megalomaniac, is responsible for World War II, and it is quite possible that the monomaniac, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, the President of the Islamic Republic of Iran, could be the megalomaniac of the 21st century and cause World War III.

The number 40 appears many times in Scripture and can be seen as a time of "testing" and/or a time of "judgment." In the Old Testament, there are many instances of 40 days, nights, years, or multiples thereof, and here are just a few: The flood lasted 40 days and nights (Gen. 7:4). Moses was on Mt. Sinai 40 days and nights when he wrote the words of the Ten Commandments (Exodus 34:28). Moses confronted Pharaoh and led the Israelites out of Egypt at age 80 (2 x 40), spent 40 years in "the wilderness," and died at age 120 (3 x 40, Deut. 34:7). The spies were in the land of Canaan for 40 days (Num. 13:27), and after some of them had given false reports, God decreed that the Israelites should wander in the desert for 40 years. There are many other references to "40" in the Old Testament, but the foregoing should suffice as examples of "divine working(s)."

In the New Testament, Jesus fasted for 40 days and nights (Matt. 4:2), and was "tempted" by the Devil during a 40-day sojourn in the desert (Luke 4:2, Mark 1:13); where the real meaning of "tempted" is actually "tested." Also, according to Acts 1:3, Jesus appeared for 40 days after the crucifixion.

What is it about Ahmadinejad that makes him so dangerous? It's his religion, the Shiite sect of Islam, and his interpretation thereof. The split between the largest two sects in Islam occurred immediately after the death of the Prophet Muhammad in 632 c.e. Those who favored the direct descendants of Muhammad as his rightful successors supported Ali, the prophet's cousin and son-in-law, and became known as Shiat-Ali ("partisans of Ali"), today's "Shiites." Those who favored Abu Bakr, who had married into the prophet's family, became known as "Sunni," or "followers," of the prophet. Sunni Islam is more conservative and decentralized, whereas Shiites, who represent only 15 per cent of the world's Muslims (dominant in Iran, Iraq, and the Hizballah in Lebanon) are more apocalyptic and authoritarian (the Ayatollahs and Imams). Interestingly, as with Catholics, Shiites also have flagellation ceremonies. However, the greatest distinction relates to the final Imam, "the Mahdi," a Muslim variation of "the Messiah," and as Hamlet says, "there's the rub."

In September 2005, Ahmadinejad spoke before the General Assembly of the United Nations and his speech contained references to "the Mahdi," dumbfounding listeners, but providing a peek into his mental processes and the portents that now seem so much more obvious. Ahmadinejad claimed that he had been sheathed in an aura of light as he spoke, and that the assembled delegates didn't blink during his speech; but their

"unblinking" was probably due to their disbelief at the direction his speech had taken (i.e., his fanaticism for the Madaviat, "belief in the Mahdi's second coming"). In August 2006, during a meeting of Muslim leaders in Malaysia (non-Arab, but predominantly Muslim), speaking about Israel's incursion into Lebanon against Hizballah (an Iranian proxy), after the latter had fired Katyusha rockets into northern Israel and kidnapped two Israeli soldiers, Ahmadinejad said, "... the main solution is for the elimination of the Zionist regime. ... As reported by IRNA (Iranian Republic News Agency) on 1 December 2006, during a meeting between Ahmadinejad and Ismail Haniyeh, Prime Minister of the "Palestinian" Authority, and a leading figure in Hamas (listed as a terrorist organization by the U.S. State Department!), Ahmadinejad said that Israel "would soon disappear." Bear in mind also that on 20 April 2007 (as reported by Israel Radio), Mahmoud A-Zahar of Hamas, a former Foreign Minister of the "Palestinian" Authority, said that Israel's right to exist contradicts the Qur'an, and the Qur'an is the "bible" of ALL Muslims. Finally, Palestinian Media Watch reported that, in an article in the Hamas newspaper, Al-Risalah, on 23 April 2007, Kan'an Ubayd said, "... the extermination of Jews is good for the inhabitants of the worlds (sic) . . . . "Ubayd's statement is Hitlerian and genocidal (the "Final Solution") both in that statement, and in what follows, in which he defends his statement by saying that it is the will of Allah, in much the same way that in Mein Kampf, Adolph Hitler said he would be doing God's will. Speaking of "God's will," can anyone really fault Ahmadinejad's religious fervor when President George W. Bush is reported to have said. "God told me to attack Afghanistan and Iraq.?!" (numerous news sources repeat this story). Similarly, Ahmadinejad said that he was "directed by Allah to pave the way for the glorious appearance of the Mahdi."

In contrast to Christianity in which everything about Jesus' Second Coming is indicated in the New Testament, there is absolutely no mention of "al Mahdi" in the Qur'an. Nevertheless, in Islamic eschatology the concept of a "savior and redeemer" appears in a number of "Hadiths" (interpretations of the Qur'an), in which it is stated that he will bear the name Muhammad and be a descendant of the Prophet Muhammad. "al Mahdi" is called the 12th Imam because he is the son of the 11th Imam, Hasan al-Askari, who died on 1 January 874 c.e. After the death of the 11th Imam (said to have been poisoned at the instigation of Sunni Abbasid Caliph, al-Mu'tamid), and at about age 5, "al Mahdi" gave the funeral prayers for his father and then went into hiding. Muslims say that he is hiding in a cave, in a non-corporeal state (occultation), waiting to resume his bodily form and make his appearance when the conditions are ripe; among the criteria for this "hidden Imam" is that his appearance will be preceded by three years of chaos, tyranny, and oppression. While Christians have waited patiently for more than 2000 years for the reappearance of their Savior and Redeemer, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad gives every indication that he is willing to spark the conflagration, the apocalypse, the Armageddon, in order to stimulate the reappearance of "al Mahdi," the 12th Imam. In simplified terms, Ahmadinejad is willing to initiate the "Tribulations" and all its death and destruction himself, in order to speed up the advent of "the Mahdi" and the eternal life that Muslims will supposedly obtain, as well as the destruction of all non-believers. In seeking to obtain nuclear proficiency, in a country with vast oil reserves, one can only believe that atomic weapons and their use are a part of Ahmadinejad's plan of speeding up "the Mahdi's" arrival by beginning the "Tribulations" on his own.

On 5 June 2007 (the 40th anniversary of the start of the Six Day War), Israel Radio reported that in an interview on Al Jazeera (the Arabic 24 hour news channel) Muhammad Habash, a member of the Syrian parliament said that his country was actively preparing for war with Israel, which is expected to break out in the Summer of 2007! Also on June 5th the newly-appointed Chief of the General Staff of the IDF, Lt. General Gabi Ashkenazi said that the IDF is preparing for an escalation on both the "Palestinian" and northern fronts (meaning Syria and Lebanon). On radio station Arutz 7 (Israel National News), 26 April 2007, Yuval Steinitz, a Likud member of the Knesset (who had started his career in politics as a Laborite), a former chairman of the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Defense Committee, made a number of points against Egypt (with whom Israel has a [supposed] peace treaty). Among other criticisms, Steinitz said that Egypt could stop the weapons smuggling from the Egyptian Sinai to the Gaza Strip, but doesn't, because it feels that the terrorists are weakening Israel. In 2004, U.S. Representative Tom Lantos, a Holocaust survivor, and then a member of the House's International Relations Committee, noted that Egypt was amassing sophisticated American military equipment even though they are not being threatened by anyone, and he tried to curtail those shipments because it's rather obvious that Egypt's intention is to use them against Israel. At the Jimmy Carter-brokered peace agreement between Egypt and Israel at Camp David in 1978, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin balked at signing the Agreement when Egyptian President Anwar Sadat stated that Egypt and Syria have a mutual defense pact and that if one is in a war, the other is obliged to participate.

In the nineteen years since the signing of the (sham) peace treaty with Egypt, [19 year Jordanian occupation, 19 year sham peace treaty, 19 is the astronomical cycle in which the solar and lunar calendars are in complete conjunction and are a reminder that God is in charge of all things!] many high-ranking Israelis, both prime ministers and members of the Knesset, have run to Cairo to meet with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, yet Mubarak has not made one official trip to Israel; he did however "sneak into" the country for Yitzhak Rabin's funeral, and then "sneak back out." On 21 November 2000, Egypt recalled its Ambassador to Israel, Mohammed Bassiouny, on a trumped-up charge of violence (in actuality, reactions or reprisals) against the (so-called)

Palestinians. In these cases it is customary to do likewise but Israel knew that if the Israeli Ambassador to Egypt were recalled, he might never be allowed back. With Sudan to the south of them and Libya to the west, there is absolutely no one threatening Egypt, yet with all their social problems, Egypt is madly spending money on sophisticated American military equipment and identifying Israel as the "enemy" in their "war games." There has not been an attack on Israel from Lebanon since 1948, however does anyone expect Hizballah (now fully rearmed by Iran and Syria) to sit-by idly if there is a general war against Israel? What if Israel is forced to deal with the Iranian atomic threat on its own? Is there anyone so naïve as not to see that there is a war brewing on the horizon, a major, possibly cataclysmic war?!

What if Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, with his monomaniacal hatred of Israel, were to enlist other Muslim countries to join him in his mania of "wiping Israel from the map?" If Israel's situation became so tenuous, would the western nations intervene? If so, and if there were an oil embargo, would Americans accept a situation in which gasoline could go to $5 or $10 a gallon, or would Israel be sacrificed in the interests of appeasement? As the experience of a previous appeasement shows (i.e. Adolph Hitler and World War II), appeasement never works. Look at Job 39:17 (bearing in mind that "ostrich" in Hebrew is used as a feminine noun).

Let's assume that Israel is either "sacrificed" or destroyed, would that satisfy or appease the Muslims; or more importantly, end their lust for other people's lands? The answer is NO, because the aim of Islam is world domination, a world "free" of infidels. Europe would be their next step, as well as "erasing the shame" (in their eyes) of their two previously defeated attempts: advancing north after their conquest of Spain and being defeated at Portiers, France, in 732, and beaten back at the walls of Vienna in the 17th century.

The portentous number 40. Forty years since Israel's smashing victory against its Arab adversaries, forty years since the reunification of Jerusalem under Israeli rule. How are Israel's adversaries including two with "sham" peace agreements planning to "memorialize" this event, and will Ahmadinejad and others join them?! ☆
